

Drug and Alcohol Awareness

Course Overview

Drug and Alcohol abuse are two of the most common forms of addiction. One of the fundamental issues is that most people simply don't recognise that they may have an issue with either, or both.

This eLearning course will help learners understand the early warning signs both in themselves and in order to look out for colleagues.

It will empower managers to be able to provide effective, meaningful support to employees who may be struggling.

Acknowledging an issue is a great place to start- but what then? How do people cut back on alcohol for example? And where can they go for help?

This course provides an ideal reference point in an accessible, user friendly format.

Key Learning Points

- Drug and alcohol dependence, and their signs and symptoms
- How managers can support people struggling with dependence
- Understand that legal, prescribed drugs can cause addiction, just like recreational, illegal substances
- Strategies for cutting back on alcohol intake
- Avenues to get help for drug and alcohol problems
