

Insider Trading

Mitigate the risks of insider trading through employee awareness training

Course Overview

In this immersive course, learners follow a fictitious character, Claire, as she struggles to decide if it's legal to buy shares in her company. Throughout the course, Claire receives advice from family and friends, and learners will be tested on their understanding of Insider Trading and what constitutes as legal or illegal. Inside information can be used to gain an unfair advantage in the trade of shares and other securities, which is a criminal act.

The course covers what constitutes as insider trading, the penalties for insider trading which include dismissal, fines, confiscation of assets (as the proceeds of crime) prison sentences, as well as damage to career and prospects, and organisational reputation.

The course also emphasises on the importance of seeking advice from a manager or a legal team before using or disclosing any non-public information.
