Personal Data Protection

Raise awareness on the importance of personal data protection within your organisation

Course Overview

This online training course on personal data protection focuses on educating employees about the legislation around data protection, with an emphasis on accountability and ownership when it comes to processing and storing personal data.

The European Union's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) is the gold standard for protecting the personal data of individuals and is the basis for the best practice principles and rights that you'll explore in this course. We also offer a UK version of the course for UK business, which focuses on the UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK GDPR), tailored by the Data Protection Act 2018.

The course enables learners to understand their role in protecting data within their organisation and covers three key areas in detail - data and the new laws/regulations; the principles, rights, and obligations of GDPR (EU and UK); and potential data breaches under GDPR.

This course was previously called 'Protecting Data' course.
